Dear Reynaldo:

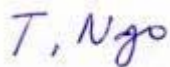

You are doing a super job and it shows! Because of your efforts and experiences in conducting “The Mindset of a Successful Trader Workshop”, this workshop is one of my most favorite subjects in trading education.

As an experienced trader in the equity and derivatives markets, I have dealt with many traders in both institution and private sectors over many years in trading methodology and strategy. I have found that the overall success of a trader was clearly dependent on his/her proficiency in two areas: the trading methodology and the well-trained mindset psychology. I have continued to train the trading psychology myself until today. It is the most important area of a trading career in any market.

Your workshop was evident to me that you had put all your heart and mind into the most difficult area of trading psychology: winning yourself. The handouts especially contained very useful information in self training of a trader’s life. You also covered all important exercise in the group practice as well as well prepared to overcome all impact on personal psychology in trading career. I believe that the workshop will assist the traders in developing a focused approach to achieve their goal in trading markets.

Congratulations! We need a coach like you.

Sincerely Yours,

Tom Ngo
